House OK's Excise Tax-Cut Measure

(P)—Four air force men directed 26 paratroopers to a safe jump Wednesday night, then died heroically in the crash of their plane.

Bradley Cisco, a nearby resident, helped pull one crewman, still alive, from the flaming wreckage. He died en route to a hospital. The other three perished in the crash. The plane was one of a flight of 32 huge C-119 troop-carrying packets which flew soldiers of the 11th Airborne Division for a night parachute jump at Fort Campbell, Ky.

One of its two engines conked out over Bowling Green, Ky. To the throb of the emergency bell, the paratroopers jumped with military precision in open country near Greenbrier, Tenn., 40 miles south.

The crew stayed with the troubled packet, successor to the C-82 flying boxcar, trying to get it to home port at Stewart Air Base, Smyrna, Tenn.

BY EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, June 29.—(P)—The fighting in Korea has made the Russian people neither excited nor nearyous

For all the behavior of the men and women in the street would in-dicate, this week has been just like any other. Moscow residents fol-low the Korean situation in newspapers and on the radio. People about their business in their usual fashion.

agitation among the people has appeared.

The city's summer social season is at its height for the diplomatic corps, with numerous parties being given. Wednesday night black ties and bare shoulders scurried to radios to hear President Truman speak to the American Newspaper Guild. Reception was good.

The local newspapers have continued to follow the Korean situation closely. Here are some of today's headlines:

"People's Army Liberates Seoul."

"Report From Command Peoples' Army Korean Peoples Democratic Republic."

"Aggressive Actions by United States in Korea."

"Aggressive Actions by United States in Korea,"

"Aggressive Actions by United States in Korea."

"American Reports on Military Actions In Korea."

"How Aggression Against Korean People's Democratic Republic Was Prepared."

The Korean situation certainly is being talked about. But it is difficult to say whether it is as hot a topic among the Russian people as the current situation in the Soviet Union's big league football race or the nice weather Moscow has been having.

The foreign diplomatic corps, however, has not been so busy in a long time. Drawing rooms buzz with whispered confidences, questions and statements, all largely based on the Korean question.

President Truman called Secretary of Agriculture Brannan in today for an up to date picture of the nation's food situation.

On the whole, the nation's food situation is as good if not better than it was when the country entered the last war. It has large reserves of many agricultural raw materials and some processed foods stored under farm price support programs.

Of perhaps greater importance is the fact that its capacity to produce is much greater than it was a the start of the last war. ### Hot Weather Is Cutting Moisture In Most Sectors

AUSTIN, June 29.—(AP)—Wheat harvest and corn and cotton development made good progress last week, but surface moisture was beginning to dwindle as hot windy weather prevailed.

Ranges and pastures continued to supply generous quantities of green feed over most of the state, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported. However it said the hot weather was slowing new growth in some aeras.

Wheat harvest neared completion in the low rolling plains, was about half out in Central High Plains counties and scrapping of the limited acreage was getting started in Northern High Plains counties.

Corn continued making good

Corn continued making good development and early fields were nearing maturity under favorable conditions.

Cotton harvest was underway in the Lower Valley.

Tomato harvest was limited mainly to Central and Eastern counties where peak production had been reached. A light harvest of lettuce was started in the Palinview section. Watermelon harvest was becoming active in Central counties. Mid-season cantaloupe areas were starting active areas were starting active All classes of livestock were reported doing well.

Food — Patriotic Picnic

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

Plan an old-fashioned picnic for the 4th of July and take old-fashioned food along. A main course we know your family and friends will like is the barbecued baked beans and steamed brown bread beans and steamed brown bread pictured here. The beans have a full-bodied tomato flavor and are tangy with such good seasonings as old-fashioned dark molasses, chili powder dry mustard, black pepper, and Worcestershire sauce. The steamed brown bread is baked in empty No. 2 cans (save them after you use canned vegetables), and slices into beautiful rounds; the bread's flavor is delectable. Heat the beans and bread at home, wrap them thickly with newspapers, and you'll be all set. Crisp carrot and cucumber sticks, celery stalks, olives, and pickles make a fine salad course for this picnic. Watermelon would be the best dessert we can think of for this menu and according to farm reports there should be a wealth of them around.

County-Wide Mass Telephone Meeting Will Be Held Possibly Next Month

By CLYDE JOHNSON

Daily Sun Staff
A county-wide mass meeting of rural Navarro county citizens—those who need telephones—will be held possibly the latter part of July, it was learned today.
A time and place will be set later, but sources behind this allimportant project already are at work. They premise some concrete action in the near future.
When plans for the meeting are formally announced, about 5,000 rural Navarro county citizenswill be invited to the big gathering.
Success will depend on the attendance and the interest shown.

Interest Necessary
Although numerous matters perance and the interest shown.

Interest Necessary
Although numerous matters pertaining to a rural telephone program will be discussed, exact purpose of the mass meeting is to determine whether the community's people—in a co-oprative body—will assume the initiative in solving their telephone problem. It is up to the citizenry.

Requirements for obtaining government assistance through the REA will be explained, and farmers will be given an idea what it will take to "get things going." Surveys, the membership total, equipment needed, and other matters will be determined later—after a group of elected leaders are assured of the people's support.

Vast Crowd Expected
The mass meeting—first step in getting a telephone for the farmer—probably will be staged in Corsicana. And since an estimated 90 per cent desire economical and adequate 'phone service, a tremendous crowd is expected at the affair.

Among those who will back the project are the Navarro County Agricultural Workers Association, the Navarro County Electric Cooperative, Inc. and other persons interested in the farmer's welfare

The county's 4-H youngsters looked over their comrades' beef calf projects in an all-day tour Thursday. A large group of interested adults went along too. Assistant County Agent Curtis Henderson, who directs the boys' 4-H activities, believes the club calves are the best quality yet. They will be exhibited at the county fair this fall.

Saturday is the big once-a-year day for members of the Navarro county Electric Co-operative, Inc. Many hundreds of rural people from a five-county area boasting 3,800 members are expected to be on hand at the annual membership meeting in the new and modern co-op headquarters building in Corsicana.

Gross also was said to have informed the Russian the U. S. intended to act in accordance with the council resolution regardless of any legal challenge. Neither delegates nor UN officials showed any surprise over the Soviet note to Secretary-General Trygve Lie declaring the council action invalid.

Meanwhile, Lie and his top aides are sounding out the 59 United Nations on how far they will go in trying to stop the Korcan conflict through aid to the Seoul republic. This was disclosed officially before Russia informed Lie that it considers sanction action by the Security Council illegsi.

Lie already had sent all governments copies of the resolution adopted 7-1 Tuesday night by the Soviet-boycotted council. Yugoslavia voted against it. Egypt and India did not participate because they did not have instructions from home.

The resolution did not set up any procedure for finding out what sid is available to carry out recommendations that all UN members furnish assistance to repel the Communist Korean invasion of South Korea.

Lie and his aides contacted half a dozen countries, including Russia, in private talks with delegations they consulted.

It was known that Andrew W. Cordier, Lie's executive assistant, visited Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob A, Mallit at the Soviet delegation's Park Avenue offices in New York. UN officials would not say whether the Korean problem was discussed.

Lie first considered, then delayed, sending telegrams to all members agking them to report in writing what they would do.

Maybe This'il Wake Us Up!

Because a couple of thoughtless their car yesterday, Miss Gilbert, our school principal, nearly had a bad accident.

She was following them on the highway and the paper flattened over her windshield, so she couldn't see. In a minute her little coupe was across the line-right in the path of an oncoming trailer-truck. It missed ... but only just!

The parties were recognized and soon as I heard about it I ran over to Sheriff Harper-demanded they be brought up on charges. But Harper says: "Hold on, Joe. Let's drivers threw a newspaper out of . talk this out, over supper and a glass of beer at Andy's."

He pointed out that those men aren't criminals. Just careless, like a lot of us seem to be getting these days, judging from the trash you see along roadsides. From where I sit, this near accident may be the lesson we need to make us atop littering our roads-and start showing a little tolerant consideration for our neighbors!

Jacob And His Spiritual Adventures Continue To Thrill And Instruct Mankind-Stories Which Never Grow Old—As Timely As Today's Biggest Headline vivid and human is the story of Jacob as told in Genesis. In these fast-moving chapters we are permitted to watch the transformation of the old Jacob into the new Israel.

His love for Rachel; the deceit of his uncle Laban which he returned with interest; the pathetic of Leah the sore-eyed and unwanted bride; the oriental eagerness of both Leah and Rachel for sons; the subtle device whereby Jacob's share of the flocks was increased; the flight from Laban the Mizpah covenant; the fear Jacob had of Esau and the crafty scheme to conciliate him as Jacob returned to the land of his birth—all these incidents have the quality which the present generation has learned to expect in motion pictures.

Have they erred in their home training.

The best answer to this is to be found in the House of God. Go back to Bethel as Jacob did and there seek for light and don't forget the little idols—false values and weaknesses set up in almost every household—which must be put away forever, as Jacob buried his beneath the oak at Schechem.

Out of the story of Jacob a multitude of lessons arise to guide increased; the flight from Laban.

From Bethel to Briton. From Bethel to Briton.
Only when a British monarch is crowned does the non-British world become aware of the fact that the seat of the throne is the famous Stone of Scone, which, according to tradition, is the veritable one upon which the Hebrew patriarch, Jacob, rested his head at Bethel, when in the flight from his wronged brother Essau, he had a vision of aladder set up from earth to heaven and of the angels ascending and descending.

and of the angels ascending and descending.

Alone, a fear-smitten fugitive, Jacob lay down on this hill-top which was at first called Luz. He was a lonely, hunted, terror-stricken man, with his soul in torment. He had cheated his brother Esau of his birthright, but now he himself was fleeing to the East, hoping to find refuge, and a wife amongst his mother's people in Haran.

hoping to find refuge, and a wife amongst his mother's people in Haran.

That stone which he casually chose for a pillow was destined to have a romantic place in history, legend and romance. After his vision, Jacob set it up as a monument and annointed it with oil and called the spot Bethel. "The House of God." Thither, in the course of generations, his children were to return and establish their religious capital.

The spot is but a few miles north of Jerusalem. It is today a bare gray summit, where archeologists have lately been working—a world removed from the pomp and glory of Westminster Abbey and the coronation of a British sovereign. The Stone of Scone symbolizes the unity of history and the place and power of religion in a nation's life.

Transformation of Soul.

Many and devious are the experimental and the resultance of the stone of the symbolizes the unity of history and the place and power of religion in a nation's life.

Transformation of Soul.

Many and devious are the experiences that turn a human soul to a vital awareness of God. Flight and fear drove Jacob to this consciousness. His is the story of a changed man—a bewildering story in which the old chicanery is strangely mixed with the new motives.

Jacob embodies the most precious truth of our religion, which is that human nature can be changed by the power of an everliving God. It is possible for a person to be transformed in his character by a vital relationship with the Heavenly Father. Jacob, the supplanter may become Israel, the prince who wrestles with God. There is a victory indeed which overcometh the world, even our faith.

Our attention in the lesson this rnere is a victory indeed which overcometh the world, even our faith.

Our attention in the lesson this week is focused upon an incident in the life of the elderly, transformed Jacob which even regular and diligent readers of the Bible pass over and forget. Jacob, now father of a dozen sons, most of them grown to manhood, is suddenly plunged into disgrace by the violence of two of these sons. Jacobs' daughter has been violated by a neighboring prince, and her two brothers treacherously slay the prince, wipe out his tribe, and pillage his villages. Jacob and his sons naturally become objects of horror in their neighbor's eyes.

Jacob Takes Inventory.

There is a very modern touch about this ancient story. Jacob, religious man though he is, realizes that if his sons acted in this manner there must have been something lacking in the way they had been trained in the home. Jacob therefore goes back again to the shrine where in his youth he had first found God, there to inquire of God and set himself and his family straight on their spiritual problems. Also he took some minor idols which members of his household still continued to cherish, and buried these under an oak in Shechem.

Bring it all down into modern life. Children today often disappoint their parents' hopes. When the parents are wise, they begin to ask themselves what is the matter with their religion; where Jacob Takes Inventory.

As a result, a considerable section of west Corsicana—from the old boundary—will vote at White's Chapel. Some on the southwest section of the new boundaries will continue to go to Oak Valley. The old Zion's Rest boundaries beginning near Post Oak creek hold in this election as in previous primaries, while on the eastern section, small segments of Petty's Chapel and Phillip's Chapel are inside the new city lines, but the voters still must go to the old voting precincts. No changes in voting precinct Democratic primary election, July 22, will begin Monday, July 3, July 3, unless someone desires to vote Sunday, July 2. The law sets out absentee voting berins 20 days fore the primary and that will be Sunday.

The printers are preparing the ballots this week and they will be at the county clerk's office in ample time. Supplies have also arrived for the election.

There will be some confusion in absentee voting and in the regular balloting in the primary election since the voting precinct boundaries for county and state elections are not identical with those in the city wards.

In the summer primaries and the general election this November, the old boundaries of voting precincts in the 46 boxes are the same as in former years. The commissioners

1950 Census Results Confirm Texas Population Change From Rural To Urban Predominance In Past Decade (By the Associated Press) The 1950 census apparently marks Texas' shift to a predominantly urban population. In 1940 Texas still was predominantly rural. More than half of its people—54.6 per cent—lived in the country or towns of less than 2,500. There is no doubt now that the new census will show more Texans live in towns and cities of 2,500 and over than live in rural areas. An Associated Press compilation shows about 3,500,000 Texas live in cities of 10,000 or more. The shift to cities also shows up in the tabulation by counties. With about 230 counties reported, about 135 have lost population. The losers are the rural counties. Their losses are more than offset by heavy gains in the cities. More Over 10,000 The movement to the cities also is illustrated by the fact Texas now has at least 62 cities of 10,000 population or more, compared with only 44 in 1940. District Court. Some of the 10,000-plus cities reached that class by spectacular rowth. Pasadena, a suburb of Houston, gained 552.3 per cent-from 2.436 to 22,412.

Odessa, West Texas oil and gas center, gained 207.44 per cent from second place in percentage gains among cities reported. Texas City was third with a growth of 188.39 per cent. Orange, also on the coast, was fourth at 181.4 per cent, and Midland, another West Texas oil d gas city, was fifth at 131.12.

largest city not yet reporting a preliminary census figure. Some of the big suburban cities—the park cities within greater Dallas, for instance—have not been reported.

Large Auditorium

Is Needed Here

Another argument for a suitable auditorium in Corsicana was advanced today by Abe Goldberg who reported that Eddle Cantor would have presented a show here if such an auditorium had been available. Goldberg said he received a call from a friend in New Orleans who stated Cantor would be willing to show in Corsicana.

The hitch—an auditorium which yould seat at least 2,000 paople was leeded.
